

An I Can Read Book™

CAPTAIN CAT

SYD HOFF

I Can Read Books are widely recognized as the premier line of beginning readers. Inaugurated with Else Holmelund Minarik's Little Bear, illustrated by Maurice Sendak, the series has grown to over 200 titles that include mysteries, adventure stories, poetry, historical fiction, and humor. Featuring the finest authors and illustrators, I Can Read Books introduce children to the joy of reading independently.

To help you choose a book that's right for your child, I Can Read Books have five levels that correspond to a child's reading development. These levels are meant only as guides; the greatest reading pleasure grows out of a child's own interests and abilities.

MY FIRST I CAN READ BOOKS:

simple concepts and stories, told in familiar, easy-to-recognize words for the emergent reader

I CAN READ BOOKS:

LEVEL 1 — short, simple stories for the early reader

LEVEL 2 — high-interest stories with longer plots and language play for the developing reader

LEVEL 3 — short chapters and more complicated plots for the newly independent reader

I CAN READ CHAPTER BOOKS:

more challenging chapters for the fully independent reader

Captain Cat joined the army.
He went in when nobody was looking.

The soldiers marched in a parade.

left, right . . .”

Captain Cat kept in step.

He knew one foot from the other.

“That cat has more stripes
than we have,”
said a corporal to a sergeant.

“Meow,” said Captain Cat.
Another sergeant looked at the cat.
“Yes sir!” he said and laughed.

From then on
everybody started saying,
“Here, Captain Cat,”
when they wanted him,
instead of
“Here, kitty kitty.”

But sometimes the soldiers had no time for Captain Cat.

"I have to clean the bathrooms," said one soldier.

"I have to sweep the grounds,"
said another soldier.

One soldier named Pete always found time for Captain Cat,
even when he was on guard duty.
"You remind me of a cat back home,"
he said, and scratched Captain Cat behind the ears.

Pete played with Captain Cat so much,

he got into trouble.

The general made Pete
do kitchen duty.

Captain Cat kept him company.

Pete let Captain Cat play
with the potato peels.

“Are you my buddy?”
asked Pete.

“Me-ow,” said Captain Cat.

The next morning
a bugle blew.
Oh, how Pete hated to get up!

But Captain Cat
sprang right out of bed.

He had to check out the garbage

before it was taken away.

Then it was time for inspection.
Everybody lined up.

Captain Cat lined up, too.

The general fixed a soldier's gun.

He fixed Pete's hat.

All he could fix for Captain Cat
were his whiskers.

"Forward march!" said the general.

The soldiers went one way.

Captain Cat went the other way.

He had to chase some birds.

The soldiers crawled in the mud.

They hiked
through rain and sleet.

But not Captain Cat!
He was taking a nap
on Pete's bed.

Time for chow!

Pete and the other soldiers
rushed into the mess hall
to get plates of nice, hot food.

Captain Cat wished
Pete would get him
a plate with a mouse.

"Are you my buddy?" asked Pete.

"Me-ow," said Captain Cat.

Lights out!

Everyone went to sleep
and dreamed of loved ones.

Captain Cat dreamed
of his loved one, too.
